

SERIES DEADLOCKED; PINCH HOMER WINS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Ernie Smith, pinch hitting veteran of the Minneapolis Millers, deadlocked the play-off series Sunday afternoon before 13,000 fans by clubbing a Jim Elliott pitch into the left field stands with the paths loaded. The final score was 5 to 2, the Birds being in the lead 2 to 1 at the time Smith cracked his blow.

It was a pretty duel between Elliott and Tiny Jim Chaplin until the seventh. The Millers scored one in the first by virtue of Gene Moore's two base run, an infield out and a fly to right. A double by Myers and Terry Moore's single plated the shortstop for the Birds in the same frame. Lew Riggs put the Birds ahead in the third with a home run over the right field wall.

WEAKENED IN SEVENTH

Everything went well, neither team threatening very heavily until the seventh when Elliott weakened. He walked Arlett and Wright beat out a bunt down the third base line, Riggs, who was playing deep, not being able to make a play on the perfectly placed ball. Norris tried to sacri-

CARDINALS SPLIT, GIANTS JUBILANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Col. Bill Terry and his New York Giants were more jubilant today than they have been for a couple of weeks at least. The world's champions feel that whatever chance the St. Louis Cardinals had of overhauling them in the 1934 pennant race went by the boards yesterday when Frankie Frisch's team split a pair of games with the lowly Cincinnati Reds while they were doing likewise with the Boston Braves.

Had the Cardinals swept both ends of the Sunday bargain bill while the Giants were losing, the New Yorkers lead in the flag hunt would have been reduced to a mere one and one-half games with a cat and dog fight continuing right down to the final whistle.

The failure of the Cards to gain better than an even split, however, enabled the Giants to maintain a two and one-half game advantage which is a pretty fair lead when it is remembered that only four more games remain on the schedule of the Polo Grounders.

But Heath was on his hunt like a hawk and forced Arlett at third. Ganzel fled out to Cullop and Wright made third after the catch. Two were out and two on when Elliott walked Homer Peel to fill the baserocks.

It was at this point that Donie Push replaced Chaplin with Smith.

Joe Shaute had the Birds eating from his hand in the last three innings.

Billy Myers, Bird shortstop, was hurt when he was kicked in the chest by Leo Norris who had forced him at second base and was trying for a double at first. He was carried from the field, Anderson going to second and Wilson to short, but will be back in the game tonight.

GREER VS. TAUSCHER
The hurlers are expected to be Ed Greer and Walter Tauscher. The game is an all-important one since the victor will have to win only one more game to clinch the association title.

Elliott and Klinger gave only four hits to the Millers while the Birds obtained five off Chaplin and Shaute.

CHAMPS, LIONS WIN CONTESTS

Both Teams Look Strong In Pro Loop; Dutch Clark, Lumpkin in Star Roles.

The professional football season is well underway with Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions looming as strong clubs. The Bears defeated Green Bay, 24-10, in the Wisconsin city Sunday while the Lions whipped the New York Giants in the automobile city, 9-0.

In another league game the Chicago Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 9-0.

The Bears with Beatty Feathers added to the backfield had little trouble with the Packers although they entered the final period deadlocked at 10-all. Two fast touchdowns did the work for the worlds champions.

The Detroit team now comprised almost entirely of Portsmouth Spartan players tallied on a drop-kick by Dutch Clark and an intercepted pass by Father Lumpkin in the last minute of play. The only change in the Detroit lineup from the Spartan club of last year is Chuck Bernard at center. Clark and McKalip, an end, both of whom went into the coaching game have returned to the gridiron as active players. Clark was voted the best backfield man in professional football before leaving the game.

The Detroit line stopped Harry Newman and Ken Strong, New York threats.

Fifteen thousand saw the game. The Chicago touchdown against Cincinnati was on a 102-yard run by Russell, halfback. He received a kick back of his goal line and sprinted the entire distance.

TIGER ELEVEN TO BE TESTED IN NIGHT TILT

Must Stop Hawkins To Have Chance; Local Line Faces Hard Week's Work.

Circleville's Tigers will go into their game next Friday evening at Lancaster as underdogs as a result of Academy's 19-0 victory over the locals and Lancaster's 43-0 drubbing of St. Mary's.

The game is played under the lights of North field, and a large crowd of Circlevilleans are expected to join the heira into the Fairfield-co metropolis.

Although the dope bucket tilts considerably toward Lancaster we cannot see where the Wilson-coached men have much of an advantage over Coach Pete Herberholz' boys. Stop a dusky lad named Hawkins and you have the Lancaster team stopped is the general belief. Hawkins was not a regular last year but he showed the Tigers plenty of speed in the few minutes he was in the ball game.

FRILEY, GRANT TOUGH
The speedy boy will have a difficult time circling the Tiger ends with Grant and Friley playing good ball there. It is possible Coach Herberholz will move Osborne, out last week with a twisted ankle, farther into the center of the line.

In drubbing St. Mary's last week Hawkins taking a kick near the middle of the field and sprinting the entire distance. A lateral pass, Hawkins to Welch to A. Smith, scored the second. Hawkins and Welch did most of the Lancaster ground gaining the remainder of the game while the Wilson men turned St. Mary's misplays into their scores.

1,721 WITNESSED FRAY
The game drew 1,721 paid admissions, 874 being adults and 512 high school pupils with 335 from the grades. Gross receipts were $441.85 with each school receiving $181 after all expenses were paid.

Coach Herberholz is expected to spend the greater part of this week drilling his linemen on their blocking assignments where they seemed to need plenty of practice. Friday. An effort to make Roth's passer from center easier to handle will also require part of the mentor's time.

OVER WORKED NERVES

UP TO your ears in work—every nerve at high tension. No wonder you snap at the wife and bark at the children.

Watch out! Overworked nerves may lead to Sleeplessness, Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion and a host of other unpleasant disturbances. Why don't you try Dr. Miles' Effervescent Nerve Tablets?

Just one in a half glass of water makes a pleasant, sparkling drink delightfully soothing to over-taxed nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is now made in two forms—Liquid and Effervescent Tablet. Both have the same soothing effect.

Hope to Shine at Illinois

Here are two lads who hope to make a name in Illinois football this season. Wilbur Henry (with the ball) is being tackled by Steve Polaski. Henry is a sophomore candidate. Polaski has attained his ambition to make the varsity squad. Henry, they say at Illinois, threatens to be the greatest all-round athlete since the days of Burt Ingwersen.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

TOO BAD JIMMY

The law's been laid down to Jimmy Lyle by his papa—Jimmy was hurt before football season started, hurt so much in fact that a little aggravation might have made the injury serious. But that didn't deter the game kid from trying to play football—He underwent examinations by two doctors and though advised not to don the moleskins wanted to play football so bad that he just had to disregard their advice. He played last Friday afternoon and gave a good account of himself but daddy found it out—Jimmy has to quit and it's too bad because he would have been a big help to the Tiger team, although it is much better for the boy.

One of the football team members has taken the time to figure out that only seven of the boys in last week's game had previous experience—Henry, Friley, Roth, Plum, Rod Watts, Mader, Adkins and Jackson were never in a game before—We want to say it will take a darned good end to move Willard Friley from the position he played so well last week.

THREE TO BROADCAST
Three radio stations, WTAM, Cleveland; WLW, Cincinnati, and the Ohio State university station, will handle the Ohio State grid games sponsored by an Ohio gasoline company—Grant Ward will head the announcers' crew, aided by Red Barber of Cincinnati and Tom Manning of Cleveland—Microphones will be placed at various places during the games with one to go into the dressing rooms between halves—We doubt if many of the coach's instructions will go over the air waves.

HEIRESS-BRIDE AND HUSBAND ARE HURT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 24—X-rays were to be taken today to determine the extent of injuries suffered by Virginia Ewing Gates, 22, Philadelphia heiress-bride, and her husband, Daniel McCafferty, former taxi driver and wrestler of El Centro, Cal., in a terrific head-on automobile collision which instantly killed a seven-year-old girl, Ell Johnson.

Physicians attending the heiress-daughter of Dr. Thomas Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, indicated the McCaffertys may have suffered fractured skulls.

Their car was driven by Joseph McCafferty, brother of the husband who was unhurt. He told officers the accident was unavoidable.

PIERPONT WITNESS IN MAKLEY AUTOPSY

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Harry Pierpont was the first witness questioned today at the inquest into the slaying of Pierpont's pal, Charley Makley, by prison guards during a brazen attempt of the two Dillinger gangsters to escape from "death row" at the Ohio penitentiary.

Pierpont lay on his cot in a "death row" cell as Coroner E. E. Smith and Prosecutor Don Hoskins opened the inquest in the corridor of the cell block that was the scene of Saturday's attempted prison break.

In Pierpont's body, near the base of his spine, was the bullet that brought him down while he and Makley battled vainly to escape, but his condition physicians do not consider as serious.

bergh case prisoner, in whose garage $13,750 of the $50,000 ransom was found, was arraigned in West Farms court today and held without bail until October 1.

While the grim, close-mouthed prisoner was being arraigned, Attorney Samuel Foley was preparing to go before the Bronx grand jury this morning to begin the presentation of evidence he believes will result in Hauptmann's indictment for extortion, Foley—and others—have been questioning witnesses for days, as well as grilling the kidnapping suspect intensively.

Hauptmann was taken from his cell in the Bronx-co jail this morning, marched through a cordon of police to a steel van and transported to the West Farms court for arraignment.

Sullen as ever, the 35-year-old German-born carpenter hung his head and paid no attention to the crowds which sought to obtain a glimpse of him.

He seemed refreshed by a good night's sleep. For the first time since his arrest, he was clean-shaven. Shortly after breakfast he was shaved by John Meroli, the jail barber.

ATE IN SILENCE
Hauptmann was up at 7 a. m. he breakfasted on pork chops, bread and coffee. His appetite was good. He ate in silence.

These developments stand out early today:

(1)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were speeding eastward by airplane to aid authorities in solving the abduction and slaying of their child and to confront Hauptmann.

(2)—District Attorney Foley of the Bronx will present evidence today to an October grand jury, which he hopes, will result in the indictment of the light-haired journeyman carpenter for extortion, based upon his possession of the ransom money.

(3)—Armed with spades and pickaxes, police were to tear up the cellar of Hauptmann's home in a search for more of the ransom booty.

TO QUESTION MAN
(4)—Hauptmann was to be subjected to a further ordeal of questioning today after his first day of comparative rest since his arrest last Tuesday.

(5)—Dr. Otto Meyer of New York disclosed that he treated Hauptmann from January to April of 1933 for a leg injury which appeared to have been caused during the previous year. This is believed to be highly important as the man who abducted the Lindbergh baby is thought to have fallen from the ladder he leaned against the nursery window.

(6)—Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, announced at Trenton that the New Jersey authorities have sufficient evidence to warrant the extradition of Hauptmann for trial for the kidnapping of the Lindbergh child.

(7)—A conference will be held at Trenton today by Attorney General David T. Wilentz, a representative of Governor Moore, a representative of District Attorney Foley of the Bronx, and aides of Huntenton and Mercer counties, New Jersey, to determine whether the extradition steps be taken immediately or whether they be held in abeyance until after the Bronx county grand jury acts on the indictment count.

NOT FISCH'S HAND
(8)—Scott F. Leslie, handwriting expert, revealed exclusively to International News Service that Isidore Fisch, late furrier, from whom Hauptmann said he received the $13,750 ransom money did not write any of the ransom notes. Specimens of Fisch's handwriting were submitted to Leslie and his complete elimination of the ransom notes came just after a brother of Fisch in Leipzig, Germany, stated that Hauptmann had furnished the money for his return to his native land. Fisch died in Germany last spring of tuberculosis.

Dr. Meyer in revealing that he had treated Hauptmann for a leg injury declared the prisoner flatly declined to answer any questions regarding the origin of the ailment.

Members who had more money totals during the early weeks would of course have a vote lead, while possibly having lost out in money totals before the end of last week. They would therefore have a chance to still remain on top by a precarious margin after even losing a prize ballot to someone else.

Only one campaign in the memory of the manager has been as close up to the end of the fifth week, which all leads to the serious advice to all members who have worked through five weeks of the campaign, that they cannot afford to relax for a single moment this week. Results this week will tell the story as to just who will win the three biggest prizes and the difference between first and third prize in value is so great that it is certainly well worth sacrificing every possible effort to get every subscription possible in this final week. A few hard-to-get subscriptions on which a worker expends a little extra effort this week will undoubtedly spell success for someone among the membership of the Salesmanship club.

WHEN YOU'RE TOO TIRED TO GO ON...

Get a LIFT with a Camel!

MISS GEORGIA ENGELHARD has scaled 90 major peaks, 38 in one season. Slender, but a marvel of endurance and energy, she says: "When people tell me of being tired out, or lacking 'pep,' I don't know of better advice to give than you'll find in the suggestion 'Get a lift with a Camel.'"

YOU'LL ENJOY this thrilling response in your flow of energy!

In light of the recent scientific confirmation of the "energizing effect" in Camels, note what Miss Engelhard, champion woman mountain climber, says:

"Mountain climbing is great sport, but don't try it unless you have plenty of energy. Many times up there above the timber line, within a short climb of the goal, I have thought 'I can't go another step.' Then I call a halt and smoke a Camel. A Camel lifts me up in just a few minutes and gives me the energy to push on to the mountain top!"

People in every walk of life have found that Camels increase their energy. Perhaps you have observed this among your own circle of friends.

You'll like Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Mild—but never flat or "sweetish"—never tiresome in taste. You'll feel like smoking more, so go ahead! For with Camels, you will find that steady smoking does not jangle the nerves.

SALESMAN, E. W. Davis says: "I'll say this for Camel's costlier tobaccos—they taste better! And when I'm tired a Camel revives my energy!"

MOTOR-BOAT RACER, Florence Burnham says: "For a long time I have been a Camel fan. . . Camels, being so much milder, never disturb my nerves. I smoke them all I want."

ANY TOBACCO MAN WILL TELL YOU: "Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

Camel's Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves!

Transportation Giant

SOME day it may be worth while to check back and determine just when the first motorbus rolled along an American highway and for a nickel or a dime transported passengers as a common carrier. It was probably a little bus, comparable to the cloud that was no bigger than a man's hand, and most certainly was homemade affair. But what a change today, and what a bigger change is coming as the years go by.

As early as 1907 double-decker buses driven by storage batteries appeared in the larger cities, in most instances unprofitably. They passed and some years went by before the bus as now known appeared.

Today thousands of bus companies maintain a horde of buses on the streets and highways in every city and every state. In addition to these are thousands of school buses, hotel buses and industrial, railway and terminal buses.

The first motorbus was a glorified sort of jitney, rolling along in its slow, rock, free, unregulated and uninsured way. Its owner was a pioneer and adventurer. Its modern successor is a Pullman car on tires and its owner a big corporation. The bus must be driven by a driver and owners responsible.

Another change in the world of buses of which the operators are too well aware and the public little aware has to do with the public revenue buses produce. Ever since the states discovered they were taxable and that they were sufficiently numerous to take taxing them worth while, the average bus in the United States has been paying several hundred dollars a year in taxes. In some states the tax burden on a single bus is considerably over $1000 a year.

No well-to-do man with im-punctuous friends will be able to understand why the HOLC can't lend money faster.

"Nights" At The Club

"ADIES' Night" has long been an established custom in men's clubs. It is an occasion for concealing the card tables and that sort of thing, serving an insipid punch of mingled grape and orange juice and ginger ale, putting on an innocent program of classical music and thus convincing the wives and sweethearts that there isn't so much to be afraid of in the club after all. It is, in fact, a sop to woman's curiosity.

Quite naturally, now that the ladies have their own clubs, they are inclined to do the same thing

by introducing "Gentlemen's Night." Here the object is not so much to satisfy the men's curiosity, which isn't very keen, but rather to show off the husbands and boy friends. Almost any husband will do, for there is sure to be a sprinkling of clubwomen who haven't any or who cannot induce those they have to come.

CHAPTER XLII

The mountain woman backed a step toward the rifle that Nance had left leaning against the wall beside the fireplace. Jeff threw up his own weapon with a jeering laugh. "No you don't, Ann Haskel; you jest, keep a-standin' right whar you be. You, too, Nance Jordan. Lem, you git that gun an' put hit outside."

While Lem was carrying out his leader's orders John Herbert said, with an air of innocent curiosity: "I'm afraid I don't understand. What is it that you have moved from the head of Shady Creek, Jeff? Do you mind telling me more about it?"

The backwoodsman laughed. "You hear him, boys? He don't understand. An' him with all his book larnin' an' poetry-writin', an' everythin'. Hit's a plum' shame whar he don't know, ain't hit?"

"Tell him, Jeff." "He sure ought to know." "He might want to do somethin' about hit."

Ann Haskel spoke quickly: "You ain't got no call to tell nothin', Jeff. Told her he ain't never knowed nothin' 'bout hit an' I'm askin' you fair not to tell him nothin' now."

"Wal, I'm a-tellin' him just the same," returned Jeff. "Hit's sure time he knowed. You see, sonny, yer maw she's been a-runnin' a still on her place—in that deep hollow at the head of Shady Creek, hit war. But I figgered as how she'd had we-us-a-workin' fer her 'bout long enough, so while she war gone to the city with you-all we-us-jest up an' moved the whole doggone business out."

John Herbert met the mountain woman's pleading look with a reassuring smile.

"So that's the way you made the money for my education, was it, mother?"

An expression of glad surprise and pride stole over Ann Haskel's face.

Diane caught her breath with the sudden realization that all the while, as he had adroitly diverted Jeff's attention by leading him to talk of his triumph over Ann, John Herbert had been edging closer to the boasting moonshiner.

The young man spoke now in a tone of mild expostulation which served admirably to tickle Jeff's vanity and center his attention even more firmly upon himself and his exploits.

"And you say, Jeff, that while mother has been away you deliberately moved this still off her land?"

"I sure did," the moonshiner returned, grinning with appreciation of his own cleverness. "We-us-ain't left a darned thing; nary a drop of liker, nor a smidgen of mash, nor anythin'."

"Are you sure, Jeff, that you removed everything? Didn't you leave anything at all of the equipment or machinery, or whatever you call it, so that mother could go on with the business if she wished?"

Jeff Todd's temper was sweet to his wretched soul. Grinning with delight at John Herbert's innocence, and swelling with the pride of his achievement, he replied: "That tar holler at the head of Shady Creek air as clean as hit war when Gawd-a-mighty first made hit."

Then the last of the Haskels laughed—laughed so heartily that Jeff and his companions consulted one another with looks of wonderment and doubt.

"I'm certainly obliged to you, Jeff," murmured John Herbert politely. "You have been most thoughtful."

"Why, you see, my mother has decided to retire from all business of that sort and it might have been embarrassing for her if anyone should have happened to find that still on her property. Now that you have done such a thorough job of removing every scrap of evidence that mother was ever interested in it, she will have no cause to worry. Really, you have been too kind."

The moonshiner uttered a savage oath. "I've done fooled with you long enough. You're doggone right that wild-cat maw of yours is goin' to retire. She's a-leavin' these parts 'fore day, jest like I said, an' she's a-takin' you wher. But first we-us air goin' to give her sich a whuppin' that she—"

The sentence was never finished. As if the word whipping were a signal, Ann Arbor's former football star went into action. A mighty kick sent Jeff's gun flying across the room. In the same instant a swinging right connecting with the point of the backwoodsman's chin, literally lifted him off his feet. A quick step with the grace of a trained boxer, and a lightning-like left and right effectively put an end to any interference by Jeff's companions before they had recovered from their astonishment.

Calmly John Herbert collected the weapons and placed them for safekeeping in the kitchen. Jeff Todd rose uncertainly to his feet. While the bewildered leader was collecting his shocked senses his two followers revived enough to sit up.

Diane caught Ann's arm. "We must do something quick," she whispered. "They'll kill him."

"Hush!" returned the mountain woman, calmly. "Thar ain't no call to be scared fer him. Thar ain't no shovin' fer him. He gits started. Them fellers know hit, too. You watch."

With the voice and air of a college professor about to perform a scientific demonstration before his class, John Herbert said: "Now, mother, I suppose I really ought not to permit you and Diane and Nance to witness this, but considering the general misunderstanding of the principles involved I feel that perhaps I am justified in asking your attention. If the spectacle which you are about to witness will prove so revolting, you may retire. I promise you I won't prolong the exhibition unduly."

While John Herbert was addressing the ladies, Jeff and his companions, unfortunately for themselves, drew close together.

The young man faced them. "Now gentlemen, if you are ready we will proceed."

The three moonshiners, though experienced in the rough-and-tumble style of backwoods combat, had received no training comparable to the rough-and-tumble experiences of the football field. Their tough, stringy muscles, their hit-or-miss tactics, and their utter lack of self-control were all sadly outclassed by the scientifically trained strength, the machine-like precision, and the cool, calculated movements of the all-round university athlete.

Calmly, with seeming deliberation, and apparently little effort, John Herbert proceeded with his demonstration. As he had promised, it did not take long.

Jeff's two comrades were very quickly reduced to trembling, dazed, and bleeding wrecks of their former swaggering selves. The demonstrator took more pains with the masterful spirit of their leader. With merciless skill and grim satisfaction in the effect of his artistry the last of the Haskels steadily and methodically planted every blow where it would do the most good. When he could prolong Jeff Todd's punishment no longer because the backwoodsman had reached the limit of his endurance, the young man said to the pair in the corner, as if he were addressing two students:

"You boys may go now."

"They were sinking gratefully through the door when he halted them."

"Wait. You have forgotten something."

He indicated the battered and bloody thing which lay whimpering on the floor. "Take that along."

Obediently they lifted what had been Jefferson Davis Todd, and with their moaning, half-conscious burden disappeared.

Diane Carol had hidden her face in her hands. Nance was muttering to herself.

"Ann Haskel was about to speak, when John Herbert interrupted her."

"And now, mother, perhaps you will be good enough to explain why you ran away? Why are you acting like a criminal?"

Diane says as how you found the message I got from Mr. Levering, faltered Ann, timidly. "I done left hit fer you on the dresser in your room."

"Yes, but Mr. Levering and Judge Shannon being in town and wanting to see you was no reason for you to act like this."

"You ain't a-thinkin' I war goin' to stay an' be arrested, be you?"

He laughed. "What nonsense!"

"If hit's nonsense to you, I reckon hit's 'cause you don't know," she returned, and was about to explain, when he again checked her.

"Never mind about going over that, mother. I know all about it."

"You know all about me a-takin' that money whar I hadn't no right to?"

"Yes."

"Do you know?"—the mountain woman hesitated—"do you know about me not bein'—I mean that I ain't—"

Before she could realize what was happening the last of the Haskels had her in his arms.

"I know all about that, too, mother," he said, brusquely. "Judge Shannon told me the whole story. But you are my mother. You have never been anything else. You can never be anything but mother to me. Please don't ever dare to speak of it again."

When Ann Haskel could find her voice she said, huskily: "Thar's Diane, son. You ain't fergittin' about her, be you?"

"I know all about Diane too," he answered, with a look toward the girl which, for some reason, caused the blood to rush to her cheeks.

"You ain't goin' to fault Diane, Herb?" pleaded Ann. "She done hit all fer we-us—fer you an' me. If hit didn't turn out like she meant, that warn't no ways her fault. When them tar police take me away I want to know that you an' Diane—"

"Mother! The police are not going to take you anywhere."

"They ain't?"

"Why ain't they? I sure done tuck that money. Nance warn't to blame. I made her do all she did; I loved I'd kill her if she didn't do what I said. That tar bank east hold what I done agin' Nance. But me—I sure done hit, an' I reckon I'll have to pay—only I want you an' Diane should—"

"Oh, but, mother, I fixed all that up with Levering and the bank."

"You fixed hit?"

"Of course. Nobody is going to arrest you for nothin'."

"Praise the Lawd Gawd-a-mighty!" ejaculated Nance. "I says to myself when I seen you a trimmin' Jeff Todd that our Herb would be a-fixin' everything; all right fer we-us."

John Herbert favored Bill Carroll's daughter with a wink which nearly wrecked what was left of that young lady's self-control.

"As for Diane," he said, sternly, "as I was saying when Jeff interrupted us, there is only one thing she can do to get out of the mess her good intentions got us into."

Diane blushed. "I'll do it gladly, John Herbert."

"What be you aimin' fer Diane to do?" demanded Ann.

"I'm aimin' for her to sell me the Carrol home and marry me in the bargain."

"Be you goin' plum' out if you said, John Herbert! We-us-ain't got no money to buy nothin'. Now that I've been ketchin' a-tryin' to git old John Haskel's money away from them furren-missionary folks. We-us-air goin' to git old John Haskel's money away from them furren-missionary folks."

"Diane's a Carrol. She's quality rich. Sich as her ain't goin' to marry with sich as you. I warn't meanin' that—I war only meanin' fer you to thank her fer what she 'ried to do fer we-us."

"Oh, yes, she is going to marry with me, mother, cried the last of the Haskels with a confidence which stunned the mountain woman. "I an well aware that Diane is the heiress of the Carrol fortune, but you are overlooking the fact that by the terms of that trust I am the heir of Grandfather John Haskel's estate. You see, mother, you were merely trying to claim a fortune which belonged to your son. The foreign missions never had a chance."

"My Gawd-a-mighty!" shouted Nance.

It was some time later, Ann Haskel and Nance were busy in the kitchen, for all had agreed that it was quite time for something to eat.

Diane and John Herbert were occupied in the living-room with affairs which concerned them mightily.

When the mountain woman appeared in the kitchen doorway just to see that the young people were behaving as they should, John Herbert called to her:

"By the way, mother, whar was your idea in leaving one of your party slippers on the dresser in my room?"

"I put Levering's message in hit so's you'd be sure to git hit," Ann answered.

"Was that the only reason?"

"That an'—wal—hit seemed like hit jest natchally had to be that way. Maw Cindarella war bound to leave her slipper somewhar, warn't she, to fit in with the story?"

AT THE CLIFTONA

Russ Columbo and the Boswell Sisters, idols of countless radio listeners, are seen and heard in "Moulin Rouge," the new 20th Century screen musical starring Constance Bennett. Miss Bennett also emerges as a singing star in this her first musical production, released by United Artists and currently showing at the Cliftona Theatre.

The picture abounds in satire, entralling beauties, and catchy tunes, such as, "Coffee in the Morning," "Boulevard of Broken Dreams" and "The Song of Surrender."

The versatility of this production makes it pleasing to all tastes.

AT THE GRAND

"Romance in the Rain," starring Roger Pryor and Heather Angel, at the Grand Theatre, delighted a large crowd Sunday. Victor Moore handles the role of a comic in such fashion that he almost steals the show.

The Danger In "Uremic Poisoning"

Authority Gives Some Facts About This Kidney Condition

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

UREMIC POISONING is really a dreadful ailment, but it need not be fatal. This condition, called "uremia" by the doctors, is most likely to be associated with inflammation of the kidneys. Failure of these organs to throw off certain poisons, which they are supposed to do, may cause the attack.

YOUTH, 19, IS KILLED IN ROLLER COASTER

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24—A 19-year-old Mt. Vernon youth, believed to be Croudo Lucci, is dead today, the victim of a roller coaster ride at Buckeye Lake Park near here yesterday.

The youth is believed to have fallen from the coaster car in which he was riding after attempting to stand up. Two other boys with him tried to save him but lost grips on his clothing.

Lucci suffered a crushed skull when he was dragged several yards by the car before falling into the water. He died within a few minutes.

Mayor W. B. Cady and Police Officer Raymond Smith left Circleville at 6 a. m. Monday for Buffalo, N. Y., where they have been subpoenaed as witnesses in the first degree murder trial of Bruno "Brownie" Salek, captured here several weeks ago in a flight after shooting a Buffalo policeman, Lieut. George Uhl.

Salek's trial opens Tuesday. It is expected that Cady and Smith will be out of the city three days, probably returning here Thursday. They made the trip in the mayor's auto, accompanied by Mr. Cady's cousin, Otto Stanley, of Middleport.

Ethridge Justice, who has been serving as special police officer will take the place of Officer Smith while the latter is out of the city.

R. R. CROSSING WORK IS RESUMED TODAY

Work of improving the Duval crossing of the Norfolk and Western railway was expected to proceed today following the modification of an entry in the injunction suit filed in common pleas court Saturday by the Pickaway-co commissioners.

Attorneys for the railroad today filed an entry and had it approved by Judge J. W. Adkins which allows the railroad to bring the rails and tracks up to the established grade of the road. This will not impair the approaches to the crossing.

The commissioners, John W. Hay, Burr Rader and Ralph May did not offer an objection to the modified order.

ARMY TO ASK FUNDS TO STRENGTHEN PANAMA

Copyright, 1934, By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Funds to finance the immediate strengthening of the defense works in the Panama Canal Zone will be sought from the next session of Congress by the war department.

By direction of Secretary of War Dern, the army high command already has drawn plans to strengthen the zone's defenses. These plans, which call chiefly for improving the anti-aircraft defense works, await merely the necessary funds to be put into operation.

SEEK $0 MILLIONS

Upwards of $30,000,000 may be requested for anti-aircraft improvement in the army, a substantial part of which will be devoted to the Canal Zone.

A move will be made to have Congress authorize the necessary expenditure for the Canal Zone and to obtain the money either in the regular war department appropriation bill or from the PWA, preferably the latter.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, sought to obtain funds for Panama Canal defense works in his last annual report to Congress but failed.

It was not until Secretary Dern visited the zone this summer that the full import of the need for strengthening the defense works was brought home to the administration.

SAYS DEFENSE WEAK

Secretary Dern publicly described the anti-aircraft defense works as "weak" and conferred with MacArthur on steps to remedy the situation.

With the rapid development of speed in high powered bombers and fighting planes, the secretary does not believe the existing anti-aircraft equipment is sufficiently adequate to protect the Canal Zone from an "enemy" air raid. Military strategists regard the zone as one of the first objectives at which the "enemy" would strike and seek to destroy if this country became engaged in a war in the Pacific.

HILES FAMILY LEAVES

About 140 of the parishioners and friends of Rev. S. W. Hiles assembled at the U. B. church Wednesday evening and tendered the Hiles family a farewell party before leaving for their future location at Oak Hill, Jackson-co. In the three years of his pastorate here he has made many friends among all classes and everyone will wish him success in his new field. There was no set program but just a general recounting of the successes and disappointments which fall to us all. Rev. Hiles and his estimable family leave Ashville with a due appreciation of the many courtesies shown them and will remember the years spent in Ashville as among the most pleasant in their lives. An appetizing supper was served in the church basement as a fitting climax of an enjoyable evening.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

PEOPLE are a lot more superstitious than they'll admit. You find the most sensible looking folks picking up pins and doing a lot of other silly things, to keep their luck going straight.

But a girl that is about to get married has got a right to be superstitious, I reckon, if anybody has. She's got a lot of things to worry about.

Well, this girl that I'm talking about went to a friend of hers that worked in a jewelry store, and showed him her engagement ring. "You see," she says, "Harry got me an opal ring, because opal is my birthstone. But I've always heard that opals are unlucky, and I don't know what to do. I hate to give it back to him and ask him to get something else, and I hate to run right into a lot of hard luck."

The jeweler looked at the ring a minute. "It's all right, girlie," he says. "You ain't got no cause to worry. If all the troubles you ever have are no closer to real trouble than this is to a real opal, you won't never have anything but imitation worries. You're in luck."

Herald "Salesmanship Club" Closes Saturday Night, September 29

The Herald's "Salesmanship Club" in which $950.00 in cash prizes will be awarded will close next Saturday night. The race for the best prizes is extremely close among the leaders—so close in fact that this week's results will undoubtedly be the deciding factor as to who will win the $500 first prize.

The vote schedule which will apply on all subscriptions turned in this week reveals that thousands of votes may be secured with a determined effort among ones friends these last few days. In fact the first prize is within striking distance of several workers. But this week's work will decide. May the "best man win."

New Deal Economists Say Richberg Business Report Is Illusory

WASHINGTON — Some of the young economists of the New Deal are not taking seriously Donald R. Richberg's series of glowing reports listing the Administration's recovery accomplishments.

As window dressing and campaign thunder they observe privately, the Acting National Emergency Council Chairman did a clever job.

But as realistically objective analyses of current economic and business conditions, Richberg's effusions, they say, are full of great and gaping holes. It is not charged that Richberg deliberately distorted facts and conditions—as far as he went.

He merely did some canny hand-picking.

For example: Richberg declared that approximately 4,000,000 more persons were employed in June this year than had worked in March, 1933; that total pay rolls in the manufacturing industries were 37½ per cent higher than in June, 1933, as against an increase of 9.6 per cent in the cost of living; and finally that the index of corporation profits had risen from a deficit of 6.9 in the first quarter of 1933 to a profit of 32.2 in the second quarter of 1934.

These figures are correct. But it is considered significant that Richberg should have taken June as the basis for his comparison instead of July. If he had used July, a far less favorable showing would have resulted.

True Picture

It is the contention of the above mentioned bright young men that the true picture of business today is far from the rosy scene so persuasively painted by Richberg.

They concede that the upturn in records took place. But that, they say, is now past history.

The last two months, they assert, witnessed a marked business recession, in certain lines so much so as to bring conditions back to the January 1, 1933, ebb of the Hoover regime.

They cite such facts as the following to support this view:

Last month's Federal Reserve Board index of industrial activity was 24 per cent lower than a year ago.

Weekly car loadings, an infallible test of industrial conditions, were from 5 to 10 per cent less than those of 1933.

Residential building in July of this year was more than 30 per cent under that of the same month a year ago.

The first 58 railroads to report showed a 5 per cent decline in gross operating revenue and a 44 per cent decrease in net income.

At the close of August, the steel industry was operating at 19 per cent capacity, the lowest since May, 1933.

Less For Labor

The critics go still further taking Richberg's own figures to show how illusory is the recovery pictured.

Richberg reported that the total labor income in June was 62.5 per cent of the entire national income. The bright young men, turning to reports of the 1929-32 period, declare that this is 3 per cent less than the smallest share received by labor during the Hoover phase of the depression.

There are still other disconcerting figures which they cite:

That the turnover in groceries was less in June of this year than in the corresponding month of 1933.

That the volume of department store sales for the 17 month period ending in July was less than that of the corresponding months of 1932-33.

These facts, the economists say, can lead to only one conclusion: That the first recovery efforts of the Administration have been spent, that new and more drastic measures must be undertaken if the gains made in the first 15

ALAGNA AGAIN IS SCORED BY CHIEF OFFICER

Wanted to Put Radio Operator in Irons, Warns Tells Probers

FEARED HIS ACTIONS

Captain Halted His Plan, Board Is Told

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Fearful that George I. Alagna, second radio officer of the ill-fated liner Morro Castle, would "Raise Hell in general," William S. Warns, chief officer of the liner and later her acting captain, sought to put Alagna in irons early on the day of the fire which destroyed the luxury liner with loss of more than 100 lives, Warns told the federal department of commerce board of inquiry today.

Warns' disclosure followed testimony that the ship's officers had been warned to keep an especial sharp look-out on the day preceding the fire.

"Why were you up and keeping so close a watch that night?" he was asked.

"We were afraid something would happen that night," Warns replied.

"That Friday morning Captain Willmott (who died a short time before the fire broke out) called me to his room and said 'watch this fellow Alagna very sharp. I'm afraid he may do something tonight. I have definite information Alagna had two bottles of sulphuric acid that Rogers (George Rogers, chief radio operator) took away from him.'"

"I said to the captain, 'let me iron this fellow and lock him up.' But the captain said no, that might cause trouble."

"I told the steward and watch-

G. O. P. MOTORCADE TO INCLUDE COUNTY

Republicans of Circleville and Pickaway-co have decided to join a motorcade starting from Portsmouth, Friday, and picking up delegations from the Ohio river city to make a huge procession into Columbus for the state party convention.

Scores of automobiles from this county are expected to join the parade. Delegations from Portsmouth, Waverly, Piketon, Chillicothe and Circleville are expected to be in the procession when it reaches the capital city.

The headquarters of the 11th district which includes Pickaway, Ross, Fairfield, Perry and Hocking-cos will be the Southern Hotel.

Many Republicans are planning to attend the convention.

George Florence, Jackson-twp, is active in the state campaign committee.

The party is also planning to open headquarters here but has not yet decided where the room will be located.

HOSPITAL NEWS

John Lemay, 12, of Monroe twp. who suffered a fractured skull when kicked by a horse last week, Mrs. Rosanna Davis, of Mt. Sterling, who has been a patient since August 29, and Mrs. Joseph Brink and baby daughter, of S. Pickaway-st, were discharged from the hospital over the week-end.

Mrs. Fred Roundhouse, W. High-st, who has been undergoing treatment at the hospital, was discharged and returned home Monday.

Democrats to Hear Throckmorton Talk

DEAN C. THROCKMORTON

Judge Throckmorton, a member of the Columbus civil service commission and state central committeeman from Franklin-co, will address the Pickaway-co Democratic club in the common pleas court room at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

An invitation has been extended to every Democrat in the county to attend the meeting.

TRIAL OF WALISA AWAITS WORD FROM OHIO LIQUOR AGENTS

As soon as state liquor agents notify the court of the day they can appear here, the trial of Roy Walisa, E. Corwin-st, charged with two violations of Ohio's liquor control act, will be held, it was indicated today.

Albert Gilmore, who was arrested with Walisa on a charge of selling liquor without a permit, will be tried at the same time. Prosecutor Ray W. Davis will represent the state and Tom A. Renick will defend Walisa and Gilmore in the trials.

WALLACE TO DRAW CROWD TO THIS CITY

Effort To Bring Thousands of District Farmers Here Is Started.

An effort to obtain a mammoth crowd of farmers not only of Pickaway but of all surrounding counties to hear Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in his address here Wednesday, Oct. 3, the opening day of Pumpkin Show, was underway today.

A representative named Kumer of Wallace's Washington D. C. office was in this city Monday contacting leaders of various farm and civic organizations urging them to get back of the drive to bring thousands of farmers here.

TO INVITE OTHERS

Letters are being sent to grange leaders and farm bureau officials in addition to allotment committees all over the district in an effort to obtain their cooperation.

Mr. Wallace's address is not to be political but it is expected to cover all angles of the government's program and contemplated actions to restore prosperity to the farmers of the nation. Since southern Ohio rates highly among crop producing areas of the nation his appearance here is of much importance.

F. K. Blair, county agent, has not yet announced where the agricultural chief will talk, nor has the exact hour been decided.

TALKS IN CHILLICOTHE

Mr. Wallace will appear in Chillicothe at noon Oct. 3 to meet with Rotary, Kiwanis, Chamber of Commerce and Civitan clubs.

His appearance is expected to give the Pumpkin Show a real sendoff since he comes here on the opening day.

MAY TRANSFER CONVICT EAST

Paulin May Go To New York In Hauptmann Probe; Report Denied.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Unusual activity at the Ohio penitentiary here today gave rise to reports that Prisoner George Paulin was soon to be taken to New York to confront Bruno Hauptmann, from whom Paulin insists he received a coded letter advising him that the Lindbergh baby was to be kidnapped.

Warden Preston E. Thomas admitted that he was leaving the city at noon, but he told reporters he was going to Cleveland to address a fraternal organization meeting.

Unusual significance was placed on the departure of the warden from the penitentiary at this time because of the fact that in addition to the Paulin matter the inquiry into the death of Charles Makley, slain Dillinger gangster, also has just begun there.

S. P. Dunkle, executive secretary to Gov. George White, also appeared at the prison but took no part in the Makley inquest, which led observers to believe that his visit concerned Paulin and his possible removal to New York.

Chapman Fletcher, department of justice agent here from Cincinnati, parried questions about his interest in Paulin and facts about the latter's association with Hauptmann, the Lindbergh suspect, which the prisoner here is said to be concealing.

The postal card ransom note in Lindbergh case.

DARBYVILLE FARM SELECTED FOR CORN HUSKING CONTEST

Announcement Made After Farm Agent and Ohio State Tour County; 100 Acres of Corn Provided; Date To Be Determined.

W. S. Carpenter farm in Mühlenberg-twp, located one mile east of Darbyville, has been selected for the site of the state corn husking contest to be held in early November. F. K. Blair, Pickaway-co agriculture agent, announced Monday.

The land, now farmed by B. C. Carpenter, contains about 100 acres of corn. The contest will be held in this field.

A special meeting has been called at the farm bureau office for Friday evening to make arrangements for the event which is expected to bring approximately 20,000 persons here.

CHOSEN BY LEWIS

Selection of the Carpenter farm was made Saturday by R. D. Lewis, of Ohio State university, supervisor in charge of the corn husking contest. The contest is a part of the "corn harvest field day" which is staged annually by the university. Demonstrations of various kinds will be included on the day's program.

Will Anderson, of Clarksville, is the present state corn husking champion.

The selection of Pickaway-co for the site of the contest is one of two great "feathers in the cap" of Mr. Blair since his arrival here as county agent several weeks ago.

It was only last week that the farm bureau announced the coming of Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace here on the opening night of Pumpkin Show.

PLANS BEING FORMED
Plans for the address of the nation's farm chief have been started and will probably be announced this week.

GOELLER RETURNS AS CITY'S MAYOR

Serves While Cady Is In Buffalo on Murder Case; Has Several Cases.

Back in the role he filled more than 14 years ago, John C. Goeller, E. Mound-st, broom manufacturer, was Circleville's mayor again Monday in the absence of Mayor W. B. Cady, who has been called to Buffalo, N. Y., to testify in the murder trial of Bruno Sakic, a suspect arrested here several weeks ago.

Three violators were to face Acting Mayor Goeller Monday afternoon. Ray Townsend, of Columbus, and Howard Chamberlain, of Ashville, arrested at 8:30 a. m. Monday by Chief of Police Warner and Officer McManamy, were unable to be arraigned at the mayor's morning session. They were held for intoxication.

O. B. Winters, of Circleville, F. D., posted $15 with Mayor Cady Sunday for his appearance sometime Monday on a charge of intoxication.

Acting Mayor Goeller served the city as mayor six years, 1912, 1913, 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1919.

CLAIM ALIEN HURT AT ABDUCTION DATE

Betty Gow Surprised By Arrest

Brother, Her Spokesman, Says She Never Heard of Bruno Hauptmann.

Copyright, 1934, by International News Service

GLASGOW, Sept. 24.—Betty Gow, the little Scottish nursemaid who was in charge of the Lindbergh baby at the time of his abduction, told International News Service today she had never heard of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, held in New York as a kidnap suspect.

Located at her mother's home here, Betty authorized her brother, John to speak for her and to declare that although she studied pictures of Hauptmann, she could not associate him in any way with the kidnaping.

"The new developments in America in connection with the case are just as much of a surprise to Betty as to the rest of the world," Gow said.

"Betty does not plan to return to America at present, but she may go later in the year. She understands she can have position with the Lindberghs again any time she wants."

"You can take it from me, she was as greatly surprised as anyone when she read of the arrest of this German."

"She had never heard of him and has no knowledge of any stranger being seen around the Lindbergh home at Hopewell resembling the man whose photographs were reproduced in the newspaper."

Betty, who has been spending her usual holiday at Clyde river resorts, returned to Glasgow a few days ago.

TWO GIRLS FLEE CHILDREN'S HOME

Search was extended through southern Ohio today for two young girls who escaped from the Pickaway-co children's home, Washington twp, Saturday at noon.

The girls are Pauline Clark, 15, and Gladys McQuade, 16. They were playing with the other children and apparently stole away through a back field, Supt. George Goodchild believed.

A description of the girls was broadcast by the state highway patrol radio station over the weekend.

Both girls have dark hair and were wearing light colored dresses when they made their escape.

CRASH RESULTS IN MAN'S FINE

An auto crash at South Bloomfield Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock resulted in the arrest and punishment of Joseph Brady, of Orient F. D. 1, for driving while intoxicated.

Brady, who allegedly came out of a side road and knocked the fender off a car belonging to Clarence Blake, of Oak Hill, W. Va., was fined $100 and costs and committed to the county jail by Justice H. O. Eveland Monday. Brady was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell.

Two auto drivers, Charles Call, of Mt. Sterling, and Boston Hill, of Pherson, suffered nose cuts when their autos sideswiped on the Pherson-rd Sunday. Hill was driving north, while Call was going south.

Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer investigated the wreck.

Contest's Final Week Underway

With The Herald Salesmanship club just six days from its end, the most exciting finish is forecast in the entire memory of the campaign manager. So uncertain is the final outcome that the writer feels that he would prefer risking his money on any of the nags in the fifth at Euclid Park this afternoon than trying to forecast just who will be at the top of the list when the judges count the votes next Saturday night.

To give a slight insight into just how tight a race this is developing into it can be mentioned without violating any of the rules of the campaign, that one of last

LINDBERGH'S RETURN EAST

Leave Arizona Resting Place Early This Morning; Stops Secret.

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 24.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off at 4:35 a. m. (M. S. T.) today to continue their flight from Los Angeles to New York.

Arising from an early breakfast at the La Posada hotel the flying pair motored swiftly to the airport where their little red monocoque had been refueled during the night.

Although attendants at the airport declared "we're not giving out any information," it was learned that Col. Lindbergh planned his next stop at either Albuquerque, N. M., or Amarilla, Texas.

The famous flying pair landed here at 6 o'clock last night. They were not successful in efforts to shroud their movements in secrecy. They were whisked from the airport by taxicab to the La Posada hotel where they gave orders they were not to be disturbed by visitors or by telephone.

Keeping his hop-off from Los Angeles secret Col. Lindbergh had his plane flown from Clover Field, Santa Monica, where he landed last Monday, to Saugus, 30 miles north of Los Angeles. He and Mrs. Lindbergh went to Saugus in a car driven by a chauffeur of Will Rogers, film comedian at whose home they had been guests.

The Lindberghs departed from Saugus in a fog and drizzling rain at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The airplane was in trim condition for the flight which will take the Lindberghs across the continent to New York where an intensive investigation of more than two years into the kidnaping and murder of their small son was climaxed with the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Their arrival in New York was tentatively scheduled for Wednesday morning.

Copyrighted Story of New York Paper Tells Hauptmann Had Injured Leg; Doctor Also Testifies of Injury; Extortion Charge Before Grand Jury.

(Copyright 1934 by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—A further possible link between Bruno Hauptmann and the actual kidnaping of baby Lindbergh, has been discovered, the New York Evening Journal states today in an exclusive story.

The Journal states it has located a witness who declared positively, that shortly after the kidnaping in 1932, he saw Hauptmann with his left foot in bandages and using a cane to walk.

This is highly significant in view of the theory the kidnapers fell and injured himself while carrying the baby down the ladder from his nursery the night of the kidnaping, and that Hauptmann was treated for a leg injury, apparently received in a fall, at about that time.

The witness, who had not yet told his story to authorities, is Silvio Constantine, former secretary-treasurer of William Bridge Motors, Inc., 3516 White Plains road. It was from this source that Hauptmann bought his Dodge car in 1931.

VISITED MOTOR FIRM

Hauptmann, who is being held without bail on the charge of abduction, visited the motor company at least once a month for repairs to his car, Constantine said.

"I recall distinctly that Hauptmann once appeared with a bandage on his left foot and that he carried a cane," Constantine, a Journal reporter, "I know it was the left foot because I thought at the time that if it had been his right foot he could not have used the brake."

"I am not sure of the exact date, but I do know it was around the time of the kidnaping. It was in March of 1932. I did not ask him what was wrong and he made no mention of his injury."

Key to Fisch's Deposit Found

LEIPZIG, Sept. 24.—The key to a safe deposit box maintained in New York by Isidore Fisch, Bruno Richard Hauptmann's "alibi" in the Lindbergh case, was found today by his sister, Hannah Fisch.

Although she previously had denied all knowledge of the key, whose existence International News Service first disclosed on Saturday, Hannah admitted she had found it in a bunch of keys brought back here from the United States by her brother.

"I have found there is a safe-deposit key in a bunch of other keys left here by Isidore," Hannah said. "Until I looked a second time, I did not realize it was the key to a safe-deposit box."

The sister, however, was unable to throw any light upon the name or location of the bank where Fisch rented the box. Hauptmann has told police the $13,750 Lindbergh ransom money found in his garage was given to him by Fisch, who since died here of consumption.

CURIOSITY FORCES HAUPTMANN'S AGED MOTHER TO LEAVE

DRESDEN, Germany, Sept. 24.—Forced to leave her little cottage at Kamenz by the mob of curious spectators who besieged her home, Frau Pauline Hauptmann, mother of the arrested suspect in the Lindbergh case, was found here today.

She sought succor from the uncustomed spotlight of publicity in the tumble-down home of another son, Fritz, a poor tailor. Fritz and his wife appointed themselves guardians of the aged woman, attempting to prevent anyone from seeing her.

"We took her away and are keeping her here for protection against too many callers," Fritz said.

"She is already upset and as a result needs rest. She is asleep now and we won't allow anyone to see her."

RIES DEADLOCKED; INCH HOMER WINS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Ernie Miller, pinch hitting veteran of the Cardinals, deadlocked the series Sunday afternoon after 13,000 fans by clubbing a home run over the fence in the bottom of the ninth inning.

The final score was 5 to 2, with the Cardinals leading in the lead 2 to 1 in the ninth.

Smith cracked his bat.

It was a pretty duel between Miller and Tiny Jim Chaplin until the seventh. The Cardinals scored in the first by virtue of Gene Dea, who hit a home run, an infield fly to right. A double by Myers and Terry Moore's shortstop for the Cardinals.

WEAKENED IN SEVENTH

Everything went well, neither team threatening very heavily until the seventh when Miller deadlocked the series Sunday afternoon after 13,000 fans by clubbing a home run over the fence in the bottom of the ninth inning.

CHAMPS, LIONS WIN CONTESTS

Both Teams Look Strong In Pro Loop; Dutch Clark, Lumpkin in Star Roles.

The professional football season is well underway with Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions looming as strong clubs. The Bears defeated Green Bay, 24-10, in the Wisconsin city Sunday while the Lions whipped the New York Giants in the automobile city, 9-0.

In another league game the Chicago Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 9-0.

The Bears with Beatty Feathers added to the backfield had little trouble with the Packers although they entered the final period deadlocked at 10-all. Two fast touchdowns did the work for the world champions.

The Detroit team now comprised almost entirely of Portsmouth Spartans players tallied on a dropkick by Dutch Clark and an intercepted pass by Father Lumpkin in the last minute of play. The only change in the Detroit lineup from the Spartans club of last year is Chuck Bernard at center. Clark and McKalip, an end, both of whom went into the coaching game have returned to the gridiron as active players. Clark was voted the best backfield man in professional football before leaving the game.

The Detroit line stopped Harry Newman and Ken Strong, New York threats.

Fifteen thousand saw the game. The Chicago touchdown against Cincinnati was on a 102-yard run by Russell, halfback. He received a kick back of his goal line and sprinted the entire distance.

150 ATTEND COUNTY YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEET

About one hundred and fifty persons gathered at the First Presbyterian church here Sunday evening, when the Young People's division of the Ohio Council of Religious Education of Pickaway-co held a joint meeting of all the churches.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Thomas Heffner, of Washington-twp, and opened with group singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The devotional service was in charge of the president and prayer of the Salem U. B. church and group singing followed.

The various directors and committees were announced by Mr. Heffner. Chairman of the committees include Miss Leona Bowman, this city, Evangelistic committee; Miss Mary May Haswell, this city, social service; Miss Lucille Kirkwood, this city, publicity.

Directors are Miss Betty Scott, of Ashville, orchestra with Paul Wilson, Pickaway-twp, assistant; Miss Mary Ruth Tolbert, chorus with Mrs. James Moffitt honorary director; Miss Mary Elizabeth Rader, dramatics.

The Pickaway-co orchestra under the leadership of Miss Scott, played "Kingdom Come" and "Little Corporal" with Misses Rosemary Boggs and Elizabeth Reber at the piano.

Mrs. Bernard Young, director of the Young People's division gave a short talk on the work of the organization.

The roll call of the churches was made and each church answered with a number for the program which follows:

Vocal solo, "In Lovely Heavenly Light" by Miss Mary May Haswell of the local Presbyterian church with Miss Virginia Harper at the piano; vocal selection, "Recessional," by a group from Emmitt's chapel, Paul Wells, Wayne and Philip Wilson, Lawrence Wolford and Dano Estelle with Miss Mary Tolbert at the piano; vocal duet, "Largo" by Miss Betty Scott and Miss Louise Hays of Hedges Chapel U. B. church, Elizabeth Reber, pianist; talk on "Building Youth Christian Union" by A. T. Arnold, general secretary of the Ohio council of Religious Education; selection by the Young People's class of the Morris U. B. church, Anna Dresbach, pianist; vocal duet, Misses Leona Bowman and Dorothy Glick of the St. Paul Evangelical church, Miss Alma Glick at the piano; vocal number, "Land of My Dreams," by Maxine Cantor of the Ashville U. B. church accompanied by Miss Esther Ward.

The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. W. A. Moore of William-sport.

MRS. GEPHART HOSTESS AT LUNCHEON-BRIDGE

bergh case prisoner, in whose garage $13,750 of the $50,000 ransom was found, was arraigned in West Farms court today and held without bail until October 1.

While the grim, close-mouthed prisoner was being arraigned, Attorney Samuel Foley was preparing to go before the Bronx grand jury this morning to begin the presentation of evidence. He believes will result in Hauptmann's indictment for extortion, Foley and others—have been questioning witnesses for days, as well as grilling the kidnapping suspect intensively.

Hauptmann was taken from his cell in the Bronx-co jail this morning, marched through a cordon of police to a steel van and transported to the West Farms court for arraignment.

Sullen as ever, the 35-year-old German-born carpenter hung his head and paid no attention to the crowds which sought to obtain a glimpse of him.

He seemed refreshed by a good night's sleep. For the first time since his arrest he was clean-shaven. Shortly after breakfast he was shaved by John Meroli, the jail barber.

ATE IN SILENCE
Hauptmann was up at 7 a. m. he breakfasted on pork chops, bread and coffee. His appetite was good. He ate in silence.

These developments stand out early today:

(1)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were speeding eastward by airplane to aid authorities in solving the abduction and slaying of their child and to confront Hauptmann.

(2)—District Attorney Foley of the Bronx will present evidence today to an October grand jury, which, he hopes, will result in the indictment of the light-haired journeyman carpenter for extortion, based upon his possession of the ransom money.

(3)—Armed with spades and pickaxes, police were to tear up the cellar of Hauptmann's home in a search for more of the ransom booty.

TO QUESTION MAN
(4)—Hauptmann was to be subjected to a further ordeal of questioning today after his first day of comparative rest since his arrest last Tuesday.

(5)—Dr. Otto Meyer of New York disclosed that he treated Hauptmann from January to April of 1933 for a leg injury which appeared to have been caused during the previous year. This is believed to be highly important as the man who abducted the Lindbergh baby is thought to have fallen from the

Mrs. George Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Baker and daughter, Elizabeth Ann and son, David, of Portsmouth, were guests Sunday at the home of Misses Ida and Florence Hoffman and Mrs. Erma Gehres, E. Union-st.

John M. Kirwin, S. Court-st., left Monday for Chicago to visit the Century of Progress exposition.

WHEN YOU'RE TOO TIRED TO GO ON...

MISS GEORGIA ENGELHARD has scaled 90 major peaks, 36 in one season. Slender, but a marvel of endurance and energy, she says: "When people tell me of being tired out, or lacking 'pep,' I don't know of better advice to give than you'll find in the suggestion 'Get a lift with a Camel.'"

ANY TOBACCO MAN WILL TELL YOU:
"Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

In light of the recent scientific confirmation of the "energizing effect" in Camels, note what Miss Engelhard, champion woman mountain climber, says:
"Mountain climbing is great sport, but don't try it unless you have plenty of energy. Many times up there above the timber line, within a short climb of the goal, I have thought 'I can't go another step.' Then I call a halt and smoke a Camel. A Camel lifts me up in just a few minutes and gives me the energy to push on to the mountain top!"

People in every walk of life have found that Camels increase their energy. Perhaps you have observed this among your own circle of friends.
You'll like Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Mild—but never flat or "sweetish"—never tiresome in taste. You'll feel like smoking more, so go ahead! For with Camels, you will find that steady smoking does not jangle the nerves.

Camel's Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves!

SALSMAN. E. W. Davis
says: "I'll say this for Camel's costlier tobaccos—they taste better! And when I'm tired a Camel revives my energy!"

MOTOR-BOAT RACES.
Florence Burnham says: "For a long time I have been a Camel fan... Camels, being so much milder, never jangle my nerves. I smoke them all I want."

Of all New Deal Cabinet ladies, probably vivacious Mrs. Homer Cummings is the least spoiled by sudden elevation to social fame. Her sense of humor is too contagious.

CADY, SMITH LEAVE FOR BUFFALO TRIAL

Mayor W. B. Cady and Police Officer Raymond Smith left Circleville at 6 a. m. Monday for Buffalo, N. Y., where they have been subpoenaed as witnesses in the first degree murder trial of Bruno "Brownie" Salek, captured here several weeks ago in a flight after shooting a Buffalo policeman, Lieut. George Chi.

Salek's trial opens Tuesday. It is expected that Cady and Smith will be out of the city three days, probably returning here Thursday. They made the trip in the mayor's auto, accompanied by Mr. Cady's cousin, Otto Stanley, of Middleport.

Ethridge Justice, who has been serving as special police officer will take the place of Officer Smith while the latter is out of the city.

R. R. CROSSING WORK IS RESUMED TODAY

Work of improving the Duval crossing of the Norfolk and Western railway was expected to proceed today following the modification of an entry in the injunction suit filed in common pleas court Saturday by the Pickaway-co commissioners.

Attorneys for the railroad today filed an entry and had it approved by Judge J. W. Adkins which allows the railroad to bring the rails and tracks up to the established grade of the road. This will not impair the approaches to the crossing.

The commissioners, John W. Hay, Burr Rader and Ralph May did not offer an objection to the modified order.

COUPE IS STOLEN

Raymond Hedges, of Tarlton, reported to police that his Chevrolet coupe was stolen from its parking place on N. Court-st, north of the Elks home Saturday evening between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

YOUTH, 19, IS KILLED IN ROLLER COASTER

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—A 19-year-old Mt. Vernon youth, believed to be Croudo Lucci, is dead today, the victim of a roller coaster ride at Buckeye Lake Park near here yesterday.

The youth is believed to have fallen from the coaster car in which he was riding after attempting to stand up. Two other boys with him tried to save him but lost grips on his clothing.

PACKING COMPANY
SAFE IS 'CRACKED'

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—City police today were searching for some clue to the identity of the burglar or burglars who sometime over the week end blew open a safe in the David Davies packing company office here and garnered a lot of cash and endorsed checks amounting to $3,300.

The safe was completely wrecked, its heavy door blown off by an electrically-fired charge of nitro-glycerine.

FORMER RESIDENT IS TAKEN SUNDAY

Word was received here today of the death of Herbert Harris, 29, son of Mrs. Raymond Harris, which occurred at his home in Martinsville, Sunday.

The deceased and his mother were former residents of this city having resided on E. Union-st. The father died about a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gerhardt, E. Mound-st, are planning to attend the funeral to be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the church in Martinsville.

EVELAND FINES TWO

Justice of Peace H. O. Eveland, Monday, fined Orange Matthews, colored, of Columbus, $10 and costs on a charge of driving with improper lights. He was arrested by Highway Patrolman F. J. Crum.

Eveland also fined Henry Fyff, of East Ringgold, $25 and costs on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Fyff allegedly drove his wife out of their home. Matthews paid his fine, but Fyff was committed to the county jail in default of payment.

men that night," Warms continued. "For God's sake keep an eye on that fellow 'Alagna. He's ready to raise hell in general."

"So we set a trap for him."

"What kind of trap?"

"Arranged to catch him if he tried to do anything," Warms said. "But the fire broke out."

Warms vehemently denied Alagna's previous testimony before the board that the second radio man made "several trips" to the bridge before being authorized to send out a SOS.

"I gave specific instructions for the SOS," Warms asserted, "and didn't just 'agree' to its being sent. Alagna says I was master of that ship."

SYSTEM FAULTY

The fire detection system on the Moore Castle, Warms told the board, did not record the fire at the time it started and only recorded it for "about 12 minutes."

Warms said he had given no orders to close the fire doors and added that there were no rules for operating the doors.

CHANGE RESIDENCES

F. K. Blair, farm agent, has moved into the residence of Mrs. W. H. Wentworth, W. Franklin-st, formerly occupied by Mrs. Marian Row Lutz and Miss Helen Row. They have moved two doors east on Franklin-st to the house formerly rented by Mrs. Harry G. Stevenson.

LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT IN JUST 4 WEEKS

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 23 yrs. old and weighed 150 lbs. until taking one box of your Krusen's just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 130 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

"Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Krusen's Salt in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce the tens of thousands of men and women known."

For your health's sake ask for and take Krusen's Salt in a glass of hot water for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks in but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

ARMY TO ASK FUNDS TO STRENGTHEN PANAMA

Copyright, 1934, By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Funds to finance the immediate strengthening of the defense works in the Panama Canal Zone will be sought from the next session of Congress by the war department.

By direction of Secretary of War Dern, the army high command already has drawn plans to strengthen the zone's defenses. These plans, which call chiefly for improving the anti-aircraft defense works, await merely the necessary funds to be put into operation.

SEEK 30 MILLIONS

Upwards of $30,000,000 may be requested for anti-aircraft improvement in the army, a substantial part of which will be devoted to the Canal Zone.

A move will be made to have Congress authorize the necessary expenditure for the Canal Zone.

and to obtain the money either in the regular war department appropriation bill or from the PWA, preferably the latter.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, sought to obtain funds for Panama Canal defense works in his last annual report to Congress but failed.

It was not until Secretary Dern visited the zone this summer that the full import of the need for strengthening the defense works was brought home to the administration.

SAYS DEFENSE WEAK

Secretary Dern publicly described the anti-aircraft defense works as "weak" and conferred with MacArthur on steps to remedy the situation.

With the rapid development of speed in high powered bombers and fighting planes, the secretary does not believe the existing anti-aircraft equipment is sufficiently adequate to protect the Canal Zone.

from an "enemy" air raid. Military strategists regard the zone as one of the first objectives at which the "enemy" would strike and seek to destroy if this country became engaged in a war in the Pacific.

DEERCREEK-TWP

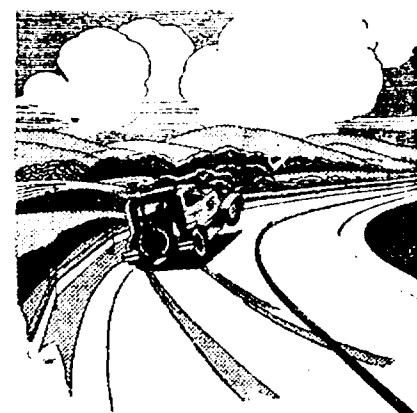

During the past week the high school and eighth grade conducted a sales campaign for the Crowell Publishing Co. These sales were made in an effort to raise money with which to buy magazines for school use. We made $22. Warren Wright of the eighth grade was high salesman. The girls being the losers in this sales contest are scheduled to entertain the boys to a weiner roast Thursday evening.

A number of boys granted ten-day working permits to assist with corn cutting have returned to school.

All available spare time is being spent by completing the work for the school exhibit at the Pumpkin Show.

Many of the high school boys have expressed their interest in speedball. A number are planning to attend the Ashville-Hamilton Twp. game Friday p. m. In all probability a team will be organized and we will schedule several inter-school games.

The Farm Shop class has just completed a unit on Rope, which includes knot tying, and splicing. The second unit will be on Agricultural Surveying. Our first project will be to survey a Speedball court, and make a map of the school

About 140 of the parishioners and friends of Rev. S. W. Hiles assembled at the U. B. church Wednesday evening and tendered the Hiles family a farewell party before leaving for their future location at Oak Hill, Jackson-co. In the three years of his pastorate here he has made many friends among all classes and everyone will wish him success in his new field. There was no set program but just a general recounting of the successes and disappointments which fall to us all. Rev. Hiles and his estimable family leave Ashville with a due appreciation of the many courtesies shown them and will remember the years spent in Ashville as among the most pleasant in their lives. An appetizing supper was served in the church basement as a fitting climax of an enjoyable evening.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

PEOPLE are a lot more superstitious than they'll admit. You find the most sensible looking folks picking up pins and doing a lot of other silly things, to keep their luck going straight.

But a girl that is about to get married has got a right to be superstitious. I reckon, if anybody has. She's got a lot of things to worry about.

Well, this girl that I'm talking about went to a friend of hers that worked in a jewelry store, and showed him her engagement ring. "You see," she says, "Harry got me an opal ring, because opal is my birthstone. But I've always heard that opals are unlucky, and I don't know what to do. I hate to give it back to him and ask him to get something else, and I hate to run right into a lot of hard luck."

The jeweler looked at the ring a minute. "It's all right, girlie," he says. "You ain't got no cause to worry. If all the troubles you ever have are no closer to real trouble than this is to a real opal, you won't never have anything but imitation worries. You're in luck."
